

FORK + FOOT

Who are we?

Hi there! We're Andrew and Karen, and we LOVE food and travel.

More than that, it makes us so happy to share these experiences and inspire others!

Since 2012, we've been bringing the very best of our adventures in food to our readers from around the world, with our own peculiar mix of humour, insight and honesty.

Our approach

Slow travel is our philosophy. Taking the time to dig a little deeper and peel back the layers of a destination. Acknowledging the popular, and embracing the alternative!

Sharing with our readers through:

- engaging stories;
- inspirational photography; and
- an insatiable curiosity!

Tasting the world, one step at a time!

Our readers

What started out as a blog simply for friends and family has grown into something so much larger!

Our approach to travel has broad appeal (and that's our intent!), yet our most engaged readers are those at a similar stage in life to ourselves.

We've enjoyed the backpacker scene and have moved on. Genuine life experiences are what we now seek, forging an independent path wherever possible, and making our own informed decisions (for better or worse!).

Whether it's a 50c bowl of noodles on a Hanoi street corner or a 7-course degustation in Paris, we will always do our utmost to continue delivering our readers that elusive combination of value and authenticity!

Work with us!

We are constantly researching new destinations and food experiences. Yet there's nothing better than a local to point us in the right direction!

If there is an event, a new venue, a tourism campaign or any other aspect of your business, region or local area that needs exposure, please get in touch as we would love to support you in your success!

- Tourism campaign promotion
- Social media management
- Event promotion
- Self guided tour development and promotion (walking or driving)
